ONE IN FOUR YOUNGSTERS 'UPSET' BY ONLINE IMAGES

STUDY OF 13,000 CHILDREN REVEALS IMPACT OF GRAPHIC CONTENT

Children as young as five have been "deeply affected" by graphic images in video games, according to a new study by Northamptonshire Police and Crime Commission.

The report showed one in four primary age school children had seen "upsetting" content online, normally graphic or sexual images.

The study of 13,000 children has also revealed that 26 percent had accessed a video game they knew they were underage for and one in 10 children aged 11 said they had downloaded Call of Duty, a game known for its graphic depiction of war.

The report showed one in four primary age school children had seen "upsetting" content online, normally graphic or sexual images.

The study of 13,000 children has also revealed that 26 percent had accessed a video game they knew they were underage for and one in 10 children aged 11 said they had downloaded Call of Duty, a game known for its graphic depiction of war.

Following the report, Northamptonshire Police and Crime Commissioner called for a shake up of the age rating of video games, calling a rating of 'AO' (adult only) to warn parents of extreme acts of violence and torture.

And Adam Simmonds warned that if the games industry did not act responsibly, the Government should ban certain games altogether.

Mr Simmonds said: "Controversy creates cash. However, today's report shows that children as young as five are being subject to graphic scenes while playing video games that have left them feeling extremely upset.

"Many parents might not be fully aware that these games contain such disturbing scenes. It is time for the industry to play a more proactive role in protecting young minds.

"A new Adult Only rating alongside parental locks on consoles will better support parents in safeguarding their children. If companies fail to do this, games involving extreme violence or sexual content should be banned altogether.

"Online safety must now be given the same priority as road safety. We should welcome Government commitments to increase education on on-line safety in schools.

"However, our research shows that early intervention is needed to help educate primary schools children on the dangers and risks of accessing the internet. Teachers should be given all the help they need to achieve this," Mr Simmonds added.

Northamptonshire Police and Crime Commissioner, Adam Simmonds, has called for a shake-up of video game ratings

Plans showing up to 250 homes on land currently home to the University of Northampton's Park Campus

Uni reveals plans for homes on site

Up to 250 houses could be built on Avenue Campus

Up to 250 houses could be built on the site of the University of Northampton's Avenue Campus when the institution moves to a new town centre site in 2018, it has been announced.

The outline proposal for the site in St Georges Avenue, near The Racecourse, includes plans for a mixture of flats, terraced, semi-detached and detached homes of two, three, four and five bedrooms.

It also features a new 'woodland' area with a play space, cycle and pedestrian links between Freehold Street, Trinity Avenue and St Georges Avenue, and a drainage area to store surface water.

While the plans involve selling the land to developers, the Grade II listed Newton Building, which was first opened in 1915 as Northampton School for Girls, will be kept by the university for 'non-student facing' activities.

The entry pavilions to the Maidwell building will also be retained. Gill and David Lindsay, who have lived in St Georges Avenue for 21 years and viewed the plans in the Newton Building, said they were worried about the possible increase in traffic.

Mrs Lindsay: "This is a reasonable idea, but our concern is whether it will end up being sold to a developer who would put even more houses in."

"The traffic could also be a problem because each house would have one or two cars, while students who use the university now often use bikes and public transport. St Georges Avenue is already a busy road and is not adequate to cope with much more."

Parmjit Nila, transport planner for CH2M, said: "It's more the direction of traffic: currently traffic is coming into the site during morning rush-hour and leaving in the evening, whereas it would be the other way around with a residential development."

'We have had a strong turn-out for viewings and feedback is positive'

The current plan is being co-ordinated by Savills, who will take feedback from the public consultation events before submitting a pre-application to Northampton Borough Council.

An outline application will then be submitted in a few months, detailing the principles and parameters for the site, before the land is sold to a developer to carry out the work.

Building work would not begin until the university has completely vacated the site, expected to be by summer 2018.

Savills associate director and planner, Catherine Mason, said: "We have had a strong turn-out for the public viewings and the feedback has been generally very positive. People are expecting something to happen, they just want to know what, and have been asking practical questions about things like site access."

Planners turn down after protests over

A controversial solar farm plan on the edge of Northampton has been refused after a planning committee said the panels would create a 28-acre eyesore.

The green land at Kingsthorpe Meadows was the subject of an auction battle in 2008 when residents' group, NN2, raised £98,000 to turn the site into a nature reserve, only to be outbid by the daughter of a Conservative borough councillor.

Land owner Nadia Azim, daughter of Councillor Iftikhar Choudhary, (Con, Abington) drew up a planning proposal with Lancashire based Green Switch Solutions to install the solar farm on 28 acres of the site, while the other 14-acre patch was handed over to the residents' group for £36,000 in 2009.

But that solar panel plan was turned down by Daventry District Council at a recent planning committee meeting.

In the authority's reasons for refusal, it said: "The proposed development would by virtue of its location, scale and appearance result in an urban and incongruous visual intrusion on this distinct rural landscape."

The council also said the solar farm would have a substantial adverse impact upon an open floodplain and said it would detract from the scenery enjoyed by walkers along Brampton Valley Way and the Kingsthorpe North Meadows Local Wildlife Site.

Councillor Sally Beardsworth (Lib Dem, Kingsthorpe) said she was delighted by the planning board's decision.

She said: "People were really concerned about this."

"We have had the Sword of Damocles lifted from us, and we are really glad Daventry District Council has listened to all the petitions and emails people have sent in about this."

Daventry District Council had received numerous complaints about Green Switch Solutions' solar farm plans, including a 70-name petition.

Speaking at a consultation meeting last year, Alan Hames, of the Nene Flood Prevention Alliance, said: "I think this is an appalling plan. That land is there to protect Northampton."

But it is not known whether Green Switch will appeal the refusal.

Assistant planner for the firm Josh Hellawell, said the company would meet over the next few days to discuss how best to proceed. On the refusal he said: "They are going to be part of the rural make-up in times to come."

"It's maybe a case of people getting used to that idea first."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Northampton, Kettering, Wellingborough & Corby areas and Trevor is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Girl, 9, praised for pet store campaign

A nine-year-old girl has been commended by a Northamptonshire council after starting a petition in her school to stop a village pet store being turned into a takeaway shop.

Ellie Fowler's petition was signed by 62 pupils at Brixworth Primary School after a plan was submitted to turn the independent shop, Northampton Pets, in Northampton Road, into a takeaway.

Her mother, Liz, from Brampton Way, said: "We have a cat, two rabbits and a dog, so we are in the shop once a week."

"Ellie wants to be a vet when she grows up and sees the shop as the place that helps her look after her own animals, so she was very upset when she heard it might close. She said to us she felt she needed to do something about it.

"She was too young to sign the official petition so she came up with the idea to start her own, took it into school and it snowballed from there.

The proposal for the takeaway was refused by Brixworth Parish Council and Daventry District Council after a similar petition against it was signed by 419 adult residents.

Mrs Fowler said that councillors had been "impressed" with Ellie's petition.

She said: "Ellie was over the moon to hear the plan wouldn't be going ahead."

"Katie Bland, who owns the shop, has become really well-liked in the community since she opened it in September. She is great with children and the dog always gets a treat when we go in."

Residents against the plan raised concerns about customer parking and the fact that a similar plan by the same applicants for a takeaway in the property next door to the shop had already been approved.

A report by Daventry council, outlining the refusal, stated: "The use (as a takeaway) would detract from the amenities of the residents in the locality because of increased noise, disturbance and fumes, increased comings and goings of traffic and would increase potential for anti-social behaviour and crime."

Mr Brown said: "This shows the real democratic power of people coming together winning."

Labour club reopens after makeover

A 'new lease of life' is to be given to a live music venue in the Mounts area of Northampton after its first major makeover in 30 years.

Northampton Labour Club in Charles Street, which many know as the Legendary Labour Club, had been struggling with finances in recent years.

But since a new committee took over the running of the alternative arts venue in November, its fortunes have picked up.

Last week the club, which opened in 1984 and operates on a membership scheme, was closed while a new floor, bar area, sign and a host of local artwork was installed.

The venue reopened on Saturday under a new name – 'The Lab' – with a night of live music headlined by Northampton rock-band Climbing Trees.

Committee member Kirsty Wilkins, 25, of Kettering Road, said: "The venue was getting a bit stale and grotty, but we are giving it a new lease of life.

"It will still be a music venue, but we are hoping to do a lot more spoken word events.

"We also want to get the community in here to put more events on.

"We are hoping it will be a lovechild between a community centre, a pub and a live music venue."

The former Labour party social club is currently open three nights a week for events such as its jam night and open mic evenings, though the two-floored venue does open on other days for special events.

Miss Wilkins said as the finances improve, the committee will consider opening more often.

"There has been a call to open it in regular hours," she said.

"So people can come and have a drink and enjoy the place throughout the week."

MP criticises move to plain packaging

Plain packaging of tobacco risks creating a perfect storm for smugglers and terror groups, outgoing Northampton South MP Brian Binley has warned.

Mr Binley said there were "significant unanswered questions" about a decision to remove branding from cigarette packets which was approved by MPs last week.

He highlighted the smuggling activities of the IRA, including a haul of 120 million cigarettes that had been taken into Northern Ireland in 2009.

"For every successful operation by the police, customs or trading standards, many more slip through the net," he said.

"Indeed the Treasury estimates that the illicit trade costs the Exchequer some £3 billion in lost revenue, while smuggled alcohol costs upwards of £1 billion in lost duty.

"South of the border in the Republic of Ireland, Retailers Against Smuggling say the Provisional IRA, the Real IRA, Continuity IRA and INLA are

Plain packaging will help the counterfeiters, it is claimed raking in more than €3 million a week from the illegal tobacco trade," he added.

These links, he said, were why many of his political colleagues had concerns about the move to "push through" its plans for standardised packaging. Many of my colleagues who oppose this policy did not even bother to vote, because the result was a foregone conclusion," he said.

"The Government knows that failure to implement plain packs gives Labour an easy hit, with Shadow Health Secretary Andy Burnham and his colleagues accusing the Prime Minister of being in the pockets of Big Tobacco.

"But there are significant unanswered questions about the policy, not least about the legality of such a move, the compensation costs and how removing the branding and anti-counterfeiting measures will not lead to an increase in the illicit trade," he added.

Real style and substance

When did you last lift the bonnet of your car?

We take the oily bits so much for granted these days that we simply assume everything will work, all the time, and forget we're being propelled by a series of little explosions.

But sometimes the result of burning fuel can make a car especially fun to drive.

Which brings us to the latest versions of Vauxhall's little glamour hatch, the Adam.

If ever an affordable car was designed to be more than mere transport, this is it.

When the car was launched in 2012, buyers had to be content with some pretty old-fashioned engines.

They propelled this high style city car with enough energy not to embarrass a driver but they lacked the verve that you hoped would make this more than a good looker.

Now you tick both style and substance, but it will cost you.

After a week in an Adam with the latest engine aboard, I'd say it was worth every penny of the £2,000 needed to jump from last century tech to cutting edge 2015.

Responsible for the latest Adam's edge is a little 1.0 li-tre petrol engine with a mere three cylinders but enough power and personality to make this a car something to relish.

You'll love the way the car feels lighter and much more nimble than when fitted with the older, heavier 1.2 litre engine. This little powerhouse is bolted to a new six-speed gearbox that only encourages you to swap gears like a race-track refugee, although you really don't need to.

A major surprise of the new engine is the way it pulls in higher gears as though it's forgotten it's so little after all.

Wilder: We're not out of it yet!

Cobblers boss says his team can still reach play-offs despite setback

FOOTBALL

Chris Wilder insists his Cobblers team are 'not out of it yet' as far as the league two play-offs are concerned despite a third defeat in four games.

Town were beaten 2-1 at Bury on Saturday and are now five points off the top seven with just eight games left to play.

Luton Town visit Sixfields this weekend for a game Wilder feels his squad will need no motivation for, and is confident the season will not just fizzle out for the club.

"We made changes because we needed to freshen it up and I think Diego (De Girolamo) had a good debut, he was very bright and positive with the ball," he said.

"It wasn't the changes which did us, it was the fact we didn't - as a group - do the things we have been doing in our good run.

"It's been a difficult week but we have to believe that we can go again, that we can win games on the bounce in this league.

"But if this is going to be what we do every two or three games then it will be a season which just peters out and I don't want that to happen.

"So I've got to rally the team and get them going. We are good enough and we're not out of it but we've missed opportunities in our past two games."

The Cobblers form has dipped in the past month, with the three points taken in a narrow 1-0 win over Tranmere Rovers their only return in four games.

They also now share the honour of being the division's leading goalscorers with two other clubs, the leaders Burton and second-placed Shrewsbury.

"If we look back at it at the end of the season, this might be a big week because this week has hurt us," he said.

"We could have really made a statement and closed the gap right up. We can still do it but we're running out of time and we need to get a win very soon."

Meanwhile, Lewis Hornby made a return to playing action for the Cobblers in a 2-1 win for a reserve side in a friendly at Milton Keynes Dons.

The midfielder, who has not played first-team football since the 2013 play-off final, a period of 22 months, got in the final 20 minutes of the match.

Billy Bodin and Darren Carter were on target in the game, which also saw playing time for Shwan Jalal, Zander Diamond, John-Joe O'Toole, Ross Perry, Chris Hackett, Ivan Toney, and James Gray.

WELL DONE Ricky Holmes is congratulated after putting the Cobblers in front at Bury on Saturday

Saints' squad rotation will pay dividends

LEE Dickson believes Saints' rotation policy has again put them in position to pick up some silverware.

The likes of the Pisi brothers and Christian Day were left out of the squad which travelled to Saracens for last Saturday's LV= Cup semi-final.

And with the Six Nations now over, Saints will get their international stars back this week. That will be a major boost ahead of Friday's Aviva Premiership clash with Wasps at Franklin's Gardens and a Champions Cup quarter-final at Clermont Auvergne a week later.

RUGBY

And Dickson said: "We've got an ample squad. We left a few people at home last weekend and they'll be even more fresh and ready to go.

"We've got the internationals returning so that will be a big boost and it's all about rotating and keeping people fresh.

"As we showed last year in winning the Premiership, it was all about having a solid squad, keeping everyone fit and raring to go for that end-of-season push.

"As it showed last Saturday, the season means nothing if you don't win in semi-finals and finals."

Meanwhile, Courtney Lawes insists England will come back stronger after their Six Nations heartache.

Stuart Lancaster's side missed out on the title to Ireland on points difference, despite securing a stunning 55-35 final-day win against France. It was a disappointing blow for Lawes and Co, who were desperate to claim their first Six Nations crown since 2011.

But they will now look to bounce back, with a World Cup on home soil beckoning in September.

And Saints star Lawes said: "It's a tough one. We let in too many points, but there are a lot of positives to come out of our attack and the heart we showed to keep coming back.

"We just kept retaliating and we couldn't have given more effort.

"We've still got a lot of things to work on, we're a young team and although we're disappointed not to win the tournament, we'll learn from it and get stronger."
